THE WEEK IN EDMONTON

Edmonton, April, — Daily the Royal visit of Their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth assumes greater significance in the Capital City, and with the advent of Spring weather, definite action in the line of preparations has taken the place of mere planning.

Erection of stands along the Portage Avenue Section of the Royal Route is commencing immediately, and under the impetus of the Junior Board of Trade, a city wide clean up and paint up campaign has begun.

Owing to the earliness of the visit from the horticultural point of view, gardeners are said to be pondering deeply their difficulties. As is to be expected, they want to make a red, white and blue showing of blooms wherever possible, and in the Legislative greenhouse it is said that the problem is one of major importance.

Among other craftsmen, however, the seasonable element does not enter—with the result that in the Legislative buildings painters and decorators have already begun the job of putting things right for the first citizens of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Outstanding contribution in the Legislative Chamber is, of course, the pair of oil portraits which have been done by Turner Taylor, the Vancouver artist. Matching in size the oil representations of the late George V and Queen Mary which already grace the chamber, the new canvasses will receive the indorsement of all citizens. Early this week the artist was at work putting the finishing touches to his creations prior to former delivery to the government.

The Chamber too, will be brightened by the laying of a new carpet which has been ordered by the Government. For many sessions now news-men and galleryites have watched the traffic lanes on the old carpet grow from a deep red to a pale pink to a dirty mottled grey. With the changing of governments, and consequent changing of desk formations, there evolved other traffic lanes, and the floor was rapidly assuming a most distracting and intricate pattern in the eyes of the Gods above.

Now it will be changed. The old carpet will be cut up and used for repairing and replacement in other parts of the Legislature suites. For it must be born in mind that the lobbies, too, were the scene of traffic lanes. Whether beaten in by legislators or lobbyists is a matter for conjecture. Draperies in the Chamber, which have faded considerably, will be renovated, dyed, and hung again, while paint and varnish will add their virtues to the cause of good citizenship.

Readers of (this newspaper) are reminded that the deadline for purchase of 1939 car licenses was passed Friday, April 21, and that the license year proper expired March 31.

Indications in the political arena are that a Unity candidate will contest the Stony Plain seat rendered vacant by the death of Wm E. Hayes. In the Capital there was no official backing to the rumor that the Liberal party will also enter the contest, nor has there been any official intimation that the election will be held in the near future.

GARDEN HINTS

On Many farms the garden occupies a place of little importance. Very often it is a piece of land which is not suitable for other purposes; sometimes it is placed so far from the house that it receives little care and its produce is not used as much as it might during the summer. It is a common sight to see gardens in the same place year after year until they become so overrun with weeds that excessive cultivation is needed to produce a crop.

The area chosen should be as close to the house as possible, for the convenience of those who may be responsible for not only the planting of the garden, but for getting the vegetables for the three meals every day.

Canada Comes First

During the Great War of 1914-18 many rumors were rife and stories in circulation of sedition, espionage, sabotage and threats of sabotage on the part of aliens then residents in this country and in some cases it was found necessary by the authorities to take some action to curb anti-British and anti-Canadian activities in the interests of the country as a whole.

Once again, now that the world is again passing through a period of international tension and while war clouds hover alarmingly over a large area of the globe, similar reports are coming to hand indicating that in some parts of this country subversive influences are at work in an effort to undermine democratic government here and to give aid and comfort to a potential enemy.

Fortunately it can be said at the outset that the great bulk of Canadians are loyal to their own country, to the form of government that has been bequeathed them by their forebears; to the fundamental principles of democracy on which this country has been founded and has been built, including those dearly bought privileges—freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom of the press and the right of free assembly.

To these tenets of the right to rule themselves and the right of individual freedom not only do the British-born elements of the community subscribe whole-heartedly and with passion, but also the vast majority of those who have come to this country from lands where other tongues are spoken, the great majority of whom have taken the oath to support and sustain the constitution of the country of their adoption, the hospitality of which they have sought and are enjoying, together with all the privileges and rights which go with Canadian citizenship.

During the Great War many of these people from other lands, including the countries with which Canada and Great Britain were at war at the time gave many evidences of their loyalty and love for the country which they had adopted. Many of them enlisted with the Canadian forces and served overseas, some of them with marked distinction, while others remained at home to render valuable services in standing those who were inclined to waver between two allegiances. To-day, they and their children are honored and respected citizens of the country. Their loyalty to Canadian institutions and the Canadian form of democratic government is beyond all question and that applies to the overwhelming majority of these nationals.

In Our Midst

Unfortunately, however, Western Canada is giving harborage to a small minority, possibly a mere handful, who appear determined to do their utmost to exert a baneful influence upon their countrymen, to create trouble for the authorities and who are taking advantage of the present uncertain international situation to undermine, in every possible manner, the government of the country.

Reports are ventilated in the press of the formation of secret, underground organizations of subversive character, of agitations being carried on by small groups and individuals, of seditious utterances, of espionage, of threats of sabotage and in one recent instance of a threat of death against the family of a war veteran who came out openly and condemned such nefarious activities.

Under all these circumstances and with such disgusting occurrences being ventilated it is not surprising that war veteran's organizations are passing resolutions calling upon the government of the country to take immediate steps to repress such activities and to demand the suppression of a foreign language newspaper published in this country where the translations of its utterances are correct, is taking a strong anti-British stand in its editorials. While supporting the general principle of the freedom of the press, branches of the Canadian Legion take the stand that suppression of press, branches of the Canadian Legion take the stand that suppression of

It is not surprising, too, to find that such occurrences at home, coupled with the tension overseas, are serving as a stimulus to the registration of war veterans who are not only willing but anxious to serve the interests of their country at home, as and when their aid may be required. Such incidents are serving but to rally them to come forward in increasing numbers and register, which is precisely what might be expected.

Action Is Warranted

Recent events give good ground for the government's action in stiffening the law respecting espionage and the government would be quite warranted in adopting some of the measures recommended by war veterans' organizations to curb and suppress subversive influence and activities calculated to jeopardize the interests of good loyal Canadians and democratic government in this country.

Just what measure should be taken with this end in view is for the government to decide but whatever steps may be taken, it can be assumed without hesitation that the authorities will be accorded general support by the great majority of Canadians, and not only those of British birth but of practically all those who have come here voluntarily from other lands and have made this country their own and of their descendants.

It must not be overlooked that those who have adopted Canada as their country, who have partaken of her hospitality and enjoyed her freedom and who have sworn allegiance to this country and its constitution have virtually said, and mean it, that "Canada comes first".

Scientists Investigate

To Make Study Of The Youngest Lake In The World

An expedition of seven Russian scientists are now on their way to study the youngest lake in the world, Lake Sarez, in Soviet Central Asia. This baby lake, which is 41 miles long, a mile wide, and 1,800 feet deep, was born only 28 years ago of a tremendous earth tremor which tore loose an entire mountainside from one of the Pamir peaks. It slid into the bed of the Murghab river, 3,000 feet above sea level, creating a natural dam.

A five-acre field of wheat will be grown and harvested on New York World's Fair grounds this summer.

Loyal Servant Remembered In Her Will Is Dead

John Pottow, for whose future Queen Victoria made provision in her will, has died at Windsor. For 50 years in Royal and loyal service, he was honored and loved by the Queen and the royal family. He was a personal attendant to the Queen, and in the closing months of her life he helped to carry her from room to room. He it was who summoned the Prince of Wales to her bedside when she was near death. Mr. Pottow had many gifts and decorations from fourteen monarchs.

More Than An Advantage

Aviation Can Also Be A Threat To Any Country

Aviation and wireless are the two inventions of our times that have been the great revolutionary improvements in human communication: they have brought the people of the world very close to one another, and at once to their advantage and their peril.

Mr. McTaggart Cowan, a visitor here, points the moral and adorns the tale of one of these inventions. He says that air passage from Vancouver to London, in 38 hours, will most likely be possible by 1941.

It is an extraordinary prophecy, but the statement of it, of course, is not startling at all. Mr. Cowan suggests, almost as a matter of course, that there will be another year of experimental flight and preparation, then a preliminary trans-Atlantic air-mail service and then mail and passenger service together.

The progress of the newly-inaugurated Trans-Canada air service is the promise and the pattern of the extended service. The sort of work Mr. Cowan is carrying on at Port Moresby is the indispensable complement of trans-continental and trans-oceanic air service. Weather observation is an important phase of it.

Aviation is at once the promise and the threat of the future. In the moral sense, as well as materially, the heavier-than-air flying machine overtops all the old frontiers of land and sea.

MARTHA WASHINGTON'S DEVIL'S FOOD

(Three Eggs)

4 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate

1 cup sugar

½ cup buttermilk or sour milk

2½ cups sifted Swans Down-Cake Flour

1½ teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder

¾ teaspoon salt

½ cup butter or other shortening

¾ cup sugar

3 eggs, well beaten

1 cup buttermilk or sour milk

1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate over boiling water; add 1 cup sugar, cream together until thick and smooth.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda, and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add ¾ cup sugar, cream thoroughly, add cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well.

Add about ¼ of flour mixture, mix thoroughly, add chocolate mixture and blend. Add remaining flour, alternately with buttermilk, a small amount at a time; beat very thoroughly after each addition. Add vanilla. Bake in greased 15 x 9 x 2½ inch pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes, or until cake is done.

When cold, trim edges, cut in half crosswise, and put together as a two-layer cake, matching edges carefully. Spread tops and sides with white frosting. Or add chopped nuts to top of frosting and use as filling.

This recipe has been adapted to modern measurements from Martha Washington's own recipe. It is an excellent choice for parties or for any occasion where a de luxe cake is desired.

Quick Delivery Of Letter In England Has Fortunate Result

Because a posted letter reached its destination in less than two hours, a woman's life was saved in England. In the second morning mail a letter was received at the Gillingham (Kent) Police Station saying: "By the time you receive this I shall be dead."

The writer gave her name and address.

An inspector saw from the postmark that the letter had been posted only two hours earlier, so the police rushed to the address and found a woman lying gassed on the floor. Now she has recovered in hospital.

KNOW RIGHT WAYS TO TRAIN YOUR DOG

Two little puppies—eager to grow up to be smart, well-behaved dogs! And so they will when properly trained with a folded newspaper.

It's not hard to make a puppy understand if you win his confidence during puppyhood. A good rule is not to punish him with the hand that feeds him. When necessary speak sharply to him or tap him lightly with a folded newspaper.

Time to begin your puppy's "grown-up" schooling when he's about nine months old. Easy then to teach such clever tricks as "Shake Hands!" When he's in a sitting position, press your hand against the right side of his head. His right paw will naturally rise, then you quickly grab it and say "Shake Hands!" He'll soon get the idea.

Training goes more quickly, is more fun for you and doggy when he's in tip-top form. To have an alert, healthy dog, know rules of diet, be able to recognize first signs of illness, especially distemper.

Our 32-page booklet tells you how to analyze symptoms and treat illnesses. Gives valuable instructions on feeding, training, housebreaking, grooming—simple directions for teaching your dog jolly tricks.

Will Fill Sandbags At The Rate Of 700 An Hour

The filling of sandbags is not part of the lighter side of the soldier's life. Old soldiers must have sweated at the news some weeks ago that the War Office had ordered two hundred million (200,000,000) of the things from the jute mills of India. The very thought of so many sandbags waiting to be filled must have made many an old back ache and many an old palm blister—in anticipation.

Therefore blessed be the names of John Williamson, R. A. Winfield and T. C. Taylor, of the Air Raid Precautions Service at Northampton, England, who have invented a machine to do the job. Operated by four men, the machine can fill sandbags at the rate of 700 an hour. Hitherto, by sheer hand manual labour, three men could fill only 60 an hour.

South African Woman Asleep For More Than 25 Years

Anno Swanepool, a South African woman who has been almost continually asleep for more than 25 years, has been moved from her bed in the Chronic Sick Home, Rietfontein, to the Johannesburg General Hospital. She had occupied the bed for 19 years. Attempts are to be made in the hospital to improve her condition, but it is feared that she can never be cured.

Owing to her condition, Miss Swanepool is still a little girl in her outlook. She can neither read nor write, for she has never been to school. She spends her few waking hours with dolls.

Although in the last seven years there has been some improvement in her condition, Miss Swanepool still goes to sleep for weeks at a spell. She has a tumor on a gland which stunts the development of the mind and makes her sleep.

"Because," answered the prisoner, "I can't write."

"Oh, I see," said the warder. He reflected a moment. Then: "What are you here for?"

"Forgery."

"What!" cried the warder. "How could you be convicted of forgery when you can't even write?"

The convict shook his head again.

London's Famous Kitchen

Free Meals Are Served To Anyone At St. Peter's

Down Garrick-street, near theatre-land and famous Covent Garden market, is St. Peter's Kitchen, where free meals are served to all.

The menu consists generally of soup, fish and chips, and, on special occasions, steak pudding. Fred Taylor, retired police inspector, who supervises the kitchen, asks no questions, but jots down the number of meals served each night. The number varies between 180 and 580. No body has been able to say what makes the place busy or not, but over four years' experience and the serving of well over half a million meals shows that week-ends—as in the case of high-class restaurants—are always slack. The most crowded night is Thursday, when money drawn from dole or pensions has come to an end.

Mr. Taylor says that less than two per cent. of his guests are Cockneys. Nearly all have come from distant cities in the age-old belief that the streets of London are paved with gold. There is an employment officer to help find work—and two nurses to look after blistered feet!—Overseas Daily Mail.

Air Mail Contest

High School Students Will Be Given Flights Across Canada

Students will be given flights across Canada on T.C.A. as rewards in air mail contest to be sponsored this fall by the post office. It was announced by G. V. Atkins, Toronto, employed by the postal department for the promotion of air mail.

Mr. Atkins said that a contest would be sponsored in the fall for students of high schools and technical schools with T.C.A. flights as prizes for the best essay written on the advantages of air mail to Canada. Another contest will be held for art students in high schools and technical schools. In this contest trips will be given for winning posters depicting the use of air mail.

LITTLE REST DAY OR NIGHT

Woman with Severe Neuritis

For the benefit of others who may be troubled with the complaint she suffered from, a grateful woman writes:—

"Last May I had a very severe attack of neuritis in the leg, which made it impossible for me to rest during the day, or to get regular sleep at night, to say nothing of the intense pain.

"Various medicines gave me very little relief, and a friend advised me to give Kruschen a trial, as she had derived benefit from it whilst suffering from rheumatism. I am so thankful that I took her advice. From the very first bottle I felt relieved, and now I am quite free from pain, and get a good night's sleep."—(Mrs.) H.C. Neuritis, like rheumatism, lumbago, and sciatica, is often caused by needle-pointed uric acid crystals, which form as the result of sluggish eliminating organs. Kruschen helps to convert those crystals into a harmless solution, which is removed through the natural channels.

CHAPTER VIII.—Continued

Lynn Dana had written Sally Ann the night before: "As to your question—I don't know. Our queer dark one, beyond all possibility of a doubt, quite literally walloped the air he flies in. As for the lad—he approves her utterly for her courage and cleverness, but he's still hard and bat-blind. If her heart's on her sleeve, he doesn't see it, and she has a nice young dignity and quietude."

Something did not quite suit Gunnar in Hermod's rhythm as they flew up the valley, and they came down at Oakland before crossing the bay. It needed only a minor adjustment, but would take a little time.

"Tea, while we wait," the ace said. He hailed a taxi and put her in it, and they drove a couple of blocks. "Here! This will do!"

"It was a shabby little eating-house with a menu written in chalk on a blackboard at the door.

"Wait!" Gunnar directed the taxi-driver.

"Sure," he said amiably. "Comin' in myself. 'La, Lena!" he greeted a big-busted woman with dyed hair. "How's tricks?" He sat down in the last seat before the counter which brought him close to the tiny kitchen from which issued heat and smells.

The fella sat near the door. "Tea and bread, honey," he ordered briefly.

The woman slammed down their plates and cups and Gunnar was buttering a thick slice of bread.

Their taxi-driver had risen and slouched into the back room, and now a little man in an enveloping apron came out. He had scarred eyes and an unimportant chin, and he was staring at them. He spoke over his shoulder. "Honest? You ain't stringin' me, Nick?"

The woman said nothing to him and he peeped out of sight like a gopher into its hole, and the taxi-driver came back, grinning.

It was the usual thing to be recognized. Almost everywhere they went someone knew Gunnar Thorwald at once, and then there would be nudges and whispers.

Other customers came in. The woman served them truculently. Her husband came edging out of the kitchen again to stare at Gunnar and Sally Lynn. He had a drool little pot-bellied figure and pipestem legs, and he stood nervously rubbing his hands over his dirty apron.

"I just gott ast you," he began in a hissing whisper. "Nick, he's a great one to kid you along. On the level, are you Gunnar Thorwald and—and that girl?"

They were, they told him, Sarah Lynn, gently the Norwegian ace with a sudden friendliness which surprised her.

"You get back where you belong!" She took an order. "Stack 'a' wheels!" "Ham and eggs!"

Without a word he scuttled back into his unsavory domain.

Gunnar finished his bread and honey and drank off his tea. His eyes were narrowed to a gleaming blue slit. Then he stood up and walked back through the stuffy room, past the hunched figures feeding at the counter, and stuck his head into the steam and stench.

"So it interests you—flying."

"Interests—say, boy! I read every scrap I can lay hands on, and I see every movie that's got flying in it, and when I stand here, hashin' and hear 'em go in the sky—" he stopped, gulping, his Adam's apple moving convulsively in his stringy throat.

The wife came back with a pile of soiled plates and pushed rudely past the flier. "Pop, you tend to business! Tea-bone and country fry!"

The Norwegian looked through and beyond her. "Yourself would wish to fly."

The little man put down a long pronged fork and clasped small pudgy hands with broken and black-rimmed nails. "Just once—before I die—I wouldn't ast nothin' more. I wouldn't—"

"Come, then."

It was all done in a flash. The aviator's arm which seemed to lift him bodily out of his fetid trench and propel him through the tiny restaurant and into the taxi, the driver, wiping his mouth, grinning, running after, jumping into his seat, Sarah Lynn, delighted, again, following Gunnar, the staring customers, the woman emitting shrill staccato cries—

"Pop! Pop! You come back here! You crazy? Want to break your foot on his foot? She began to whimper and storm. "You let loose a' him, Mister! I'll call a cop! You can't kidnap—"

They were rattling down the street, the little man wedged in behind, the unhealthy pallor of his face suffused with scarlet excitement.

Sarah Lynn drew Gunnar aside while the Hermod was being wheeled to the line. "It's a gorgeous thing to do—and I adore it! Look at him! He's not expiring with bliss! But Gunnar, he looks so sick—he has such a wretched color, and see how he breathes. I mean—suppose he has a weak heart?" She put an anxious hand on his arm.

He looked down at her, his gaze at once stern and gay, reckless and reasonable. "Thinking still with fear of death? You have not listened, then, while I told you? Life is one adventure; death is another! To be alive—that is nothing, unless life is good. Is he living in that four hole? Better death in clean air! We go!"

CHAPTER IX.

The Gate was richly golden, bathed and burnished in a strong metallic radiance, and the sun was sinking into the western sea in a molten blaze of unbelievable glory.

Pop perched on the edge of his seat, looking off, looking down. His unpleasant pallor was enhanced and there was a pinched look about his nose and mouth. He was breathing badly, but his eyes were enraptured. He caught her scrutiny upon him and smiled at her, drawing a long, quivering breath, tipping his head back, relaxing like a swimmer about to float on a gentle sea.

The Hermod swooped and swirled like a gull, dipped and rose again. Sarah Lynn pulled herself to attention. This proud dominion over the fowl of the air and the fishes of the sea was not a bird-like inconsequence but a business of infinite importance, dotted of levers and gears, vibrant with precision. The sea gulls, white dots against green-blue, far below them now, flew because they couldn't help it, but men flew because they were conquered.

The taxi-driver was waiting for them. "Hi, Pop," he said, "you better beat it! Lena, she's fit to be tied!"

The little man tried to thank Gunnar, but he made only a series of embarrassed gurgles.

The flier gave him a comradely clap on the shoulder. "It is good! Now you remember always!"

Sarah Lynn escorted him back to the restaurant.

Driving back to Danavale she said again, "I want to come down in a parachute, Gunnar."

"Yes. After you have soled for a month. Then I will take you."

"Take me?"

"You shall do it from the Her-

mod. I will remove the door, for your Department of Commerce, Conrad Jordan has told me, makes you wear two chutes when it is the jump of intention."

"Oh? In case one doesn't work? And it would be too bulky to get out through the door? But after I'm once out, it's perfectly simple, isn't it, Gunnar? Just to wait long enough to be clear of the ship before I pull the string?"

"That is all," he agreed. His mouth looked rather grim.

"Gunnar, did you mind when you did it?"

"It is good! Now you remember always!"

"On the ground, before, I had fear like a great sickness. In the air it left me."

"Le Roy suggested her first flight alone in secret but she decided against it. It was due Great-granny and Uncle Lynn and old Penny if they wanted to come, and at the last instant she whispered to her young brother Bill. Bill's freckles, standing out like brown polka-dots on his pale face, were the last things she thought about as she walked over to the plane."

She slipped round to the further side, unobserved, and laid her face against the Chinese lacquer red. "Don't be jittery, darling!" she whispered. "I won't even nick my nail-polish. I promise! I'll take you up like a swallow and bring you down like a leaf."

She got into the cockpit and went through the routine ship had rehearsed again and again. It had become an integral part of her mental process.

The assistant sprang aside from the propeller. "Clear!"

"Clear, oh, clear! Forever and forever, life for the queer dark Dana girl, shining and clear."

Sarah Lynn pushed her throttle to the stop and Ladybug went forward with a roar, left the ground and began to climb into the wind. Sarah Lynn reached the altitude she wanted, readjusted her stabilizer to take the load off the joy stick, leveled off, looked to the left, looking for the ship as she flew. She exulted. "No matter what comes to me, if I live to be a hundred, I can never be as happy as this instant!"

The little ship quivered under her hands, sprang forward at her touch, dipped, soared. It was a living thing, vibrant, sensitive; delicate and dear; helpless in her care, depending upon her courage and skill.

"I'll take care of you!" Sarah Lynn pledged her plane.

Ladybug, Ladybug, fly away home!

Planning Long Glide

British Pilot Is Hoping To Set A New Record

A 1,450-mile "Glide" is being planned by Mr. Philip Wills, the Empire's leading glider pilot, says Pearson's Weekly. He hopes to travel non-stop from Perth (Australia) to Adelaide and so set up a new record. Mr. Wills holds the present British distance record of more than 200 miles, but he has been in the contemplated venture, he will beat the world's distance record, at present held by Russia, by more than 1,000 miles.

Receives Appointment

Dr. Charles H. O'Donoghue, who was first professor of zoology at the University of Manitoba, has been appointed professor of zoology at the University of Reading, England. He carried out considerable important research work in Canada. Since 1927 he has been reader in zoology at the University of Edinburgh.

In England, about 76 per cent. of the non-fatal and 60 per cent. of the fatal road accidents occur on roads with a restricted speed limit of 30 miles per hour.

Prairie Rose Culture

Many Choice Varieties Can Be Successfully Grown In The West

It is to be regretted that roses are not found in the prairie garden and employed in beautifying the prairie home grounds more frequently than they are. Too often the cause lies, not in the climate, not in the roses, but in the people themselves. Many people have the erroneous idea that roses cannot be grown successfully on the prairie. Yet there are several varieties in the Briar and Rugosa Hybrids that are quite hardy at the Dominion Experimental Station, Rosthern, Sask., and a few in the more tender Hybrid Perpetual class which can be grown with success provided a little winter protection is given.

In the tall and very hardy type, Betty Bland is in a class by itself. It grows from three to six feet high and is covered with medium sized double pink roses in June. The bright red branches add to its decorative effect. The Rugosa makes a useful landscape shrub. It is hardy and thrifty, with luxuriant deep green wrinkled foliage and large purplish to white flowers. Being of the perpetual blooming type it can be depended on for a long season of bloom. Rosa Altaica is a shrubby free flowering plant with small foliage and large creamy white flowers. Hanna, dark red, semi-double; Harrison's Yellow, semi-double, all are hardy. Austrian Copper, bright reddish copper, single; and F. J. Grootendorst with its clusters of small rose flowers and long season of bloom are all hardy here with little or no protection.

Rosa rubrifolia, the Redleaf rose, has attractive purplish red foliage which makes a good background for other roses or ornamental shrubs. It is not quite hardy here.

In the Hybrid Perpetual class which come through the winter without any special protection, the good varieties are: Mrs. John Laing, rose pink, fragrant, lasting; Capt. Hayward, deep red; Frau Karl Druschki, an excellent white; Hugh Dickson, crimson; and the fine Hybrid Tea, Gruss an Tegetzel, with its bright red semi-double fragrant flowers and continuous blooming habit.

Several other varieties of Hybrid Perpetuals and a few Moss roses are being tested at the Rosthern Station.

Under Protective Wing

South Africa Helpless Without Britain's Fleet For Defence

Without Great Britain's aid South Africa would be helpless, Jan Smuts, Minister of Justice, said in an address to a United Party meeting recently.

"We have a large country with many harbours," he said, "but no defence. We are lucky to have England's fleet to defend us. Otherwise we would be helpless in time of danger. In other words we would be helpless without her protection, as we have a coastline of so many thousands of miles."

"We are indeed fortunate that by grace of Great Britain we have a free, democratic country. We are greatly indebted to Britain in this regard, and for that reason we are not having to be dictated to by any dictator or any such person but to have the freedom of our own Government and make our own laws."

"I therefore implore you to stand together and keep close to overseas friends, because if we lose them today we are helpless."

Lost We Forget

In the war of 1914-18 throughout the world there were:

74 million men mobilized.
9 million killed.
3 million missing.
19 million wounded.
10 million disabled.
10 million prisoners.
9 million orphans.

Ten million men, women and children were forced to flee from their homes.

Six thousand, four hundred men were killed daily, and this went on for 1,537 days.—Voix du Combattant, Paris.

Dairying is New York's largest and most widespread industry. Holland, noted for its milk and dairy products, does not compare with New York in this respect.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

Men love girls who are full of fun, who invite you to dances and parties. BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they take girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system to give pep to your system, you will find that with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, it helps build up your physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

Reclaimed Sandy Waste

British Company Has Renamed A Garden In The Desert

In ancient times the valley of the Tigris and Euphrates was one of the world's garden spots. Irrigation made the fertile lands so productive that ancient civilizations rose here, to fall and rise again. The Garden of Eden, some have thought, was in that valley. But slowly the irrigation systems fell apart, repairs ceased, and little more than a sandy waste remained. Sixteen years ago a British company started to build a new irrigation system to make what had become desert blossom like the rose.—New York Times.

Total Seems Large

Although Production Of Snuff In Canada Varies Each Year

The Toronto Star says the production of snuff in Canada varies from year to year, averaging 1,000,000 pounds in 1928-30, and in 1937 over $25,000 pounds, worth in that year over a million dollars at the factory, and costing the ultimate consumer much more. Who is it that consumes all this snuff? Even making allowances for its use as an insecticide, as well as for human consumption, the total seems impressively large.

The New England shilling was the first coin issued in this country by American colonists. Distributed in defiance of royal British decree, it was highly popular as a gesture of independence.

In Germany, during the World War, the copper roofs on all the buildings except two cathedrals were ripped off to make shells. They have been replaced since that time.

Proper drainage of milk curds would result in saving of 3,000,000 gallons yearly in Great Britain, the department of scientific research estimates.

Photograph A Cough

Radiological apparatus which can photograph the coughs of a patient during attacks of pleurisy or pneumonia has been invented by Professor Edoardo Cignolini. It will be an important exhibit at the forthcoming Leonardo da Vinci Fair in Milan.

The number of pieces in a watch or clock has not changed materially since clocks first were made.

Stomach Distress?

If you are troubled with stomach distress, gas or indigestion, you may require Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This tonic tends to increase the digestion, increases the appetite, and as a result you soon feel more vigor and energy. It is a powerful laxative and gas and you feel less heavy in your stomach. It is a powerful tonic and will help you feel more comfortable after eating. I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and I feel ever as much better as I did when I started to take it from your drug store today.

Round About Town

SEEN BY US

This age is such a ridiculous one isn't it? The young people don't seem to know what the conventional hour is to go to a dance.

There was more than one smiling face on Sunday. And it's no wonder! The popular favorite of days gone by returned to pay us a visit.

Some people are more energetic than we would be. We hear they were out walking exceptionally early Sunday morning. It's good that the 1:30 passenger is no later.

It's first one and then the other. Can't the poor boy make up his mind? At Cereal he prefers one—at Chinook the other. Why doesn't he try the "Dorothy Dix" or "What Should I Do" column to solve his problem?

There's nothing like winding up a helarious week end with a long truck ride. We are told that Cereal Didn't appreciate the umteen visitors that wanted notice but were S. O. L.

Some of our popular matrons are becoming very flirty of late. We hear they wanted some public school boys to go walking with them one night.

The hikers last Sunday were out in full prominence. The smart foursome, a comical three-some and a variety of couples all went different directions. It's good exercise but in the future remember when to return.

Mr. J. M. Davis who has been visiting with his sons at Drumheller and Cayley for a few weeks returned on Wednesday.

Mr. Butts who has been farming for a number of years, in the north country, 60 miles from Edmonton, returned to Chinook this week. He says he would have been further ahead had he remained here.

Why didn't the Cereal young fry pay Chinook a visit at a more feasible hour? We seldom rise as early as 2:30 on a Monday morning, you know.

The young men of today, certainly differ from what we fellows were in our country. The girl goes home for her holidays and what does the B. F. do? He immediately invites another young lady to a dance.

Banff Welcomes Their Majesties

Banff Springs Hotel, internationally famous Canadian Rocky Mountain resort at Banff, Alberta, will be visited by King George VI and Queen Elizabeth during their Canadian tour, when residents of the Rocky Mountain town will accord them a rapturous welcome. Their Majesties will enjoy their first day of rest in Canada in the Banff Springs Hotel, and to their memories of the Empire will be added the compellingly magnificent vistas of the Valley of the Bow and the sweeping snow-capped ramparts of Sulphur Mountain, Mount Rundle and the Fairholme Range. Present plans provide for the arrival of Their Majesties at Banff in the evening of May 26th; a day of rest and enjoyment on May 27th and their departure during the mid-morning of May 28th. During their stay they will enjoy the drive to beautiful Lake Louise, appropriately named after Princess Louise, wife of the Marquis of Lorne, sometime Governor-General of Canada, and a daughter of Queen Victoria. They will make their headquarters at the Banff Springs Hotel which will be opened earlier this season exclusively for use of the Royal party. The picture layout shows the hotel in its magnificent mountain setting and glimpses of a few of the spacious rooms which lend comfort and charm to the Royal Suite.

New Locomotives Poems in Steel

Canada's newest railway locomotives are poems in steel, graceful, light-weight, semi-streamlined, machines capable of 110 miles an hour. Radical departures in construction have been made in the Canadian Pacific Railway's five new "3600" engines, the first of which was taken over on Monday, July 27, at a brilliant ceremony which was broadcast on a nation-wide radio net-work through the facilities of the company's Communications Department, and which included addresses by Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., L.D., chairman and president, Canadian Pacific Railway; His Worship Mayor Camille Houde of Montreal; William C. Dickerman, president of the Montreal Locomotive Company, where the new locomotive was built; and J. N. Burke, Canadian Pacific veteran.

The new Jubilee Locomotives, so named because they will go into operation in the jubilee year of the company's transcontinental passenger service, will pull a completely new type of train, lighter than the ordinary, semi-streamlined, and comfortable. The new coaches are under construction.

Cereal A I A Held Meeting

The Executive Board of the Cereal A I A held its meeting in the Cereal Hotel last Saturday evening, when plans were made to sponsor a garden competition this season which will be open only to A I A members and their families. Those who are interested should make plans to attend and aim to capture one of the five prizes being offered for the best gardens. Prizes range from one to five dollars in addition to three collections of McPayden's seed. Watch this paper for further particulars. The Board also plan to assist its members in the marketing of their livestock by conducting an auction sale shortly before harvest.
